

The 3rd Kyushu U 3MT Application Guidelines for AY 2023

1. Overview

- (1) 3MT (Three Minutes Thesis) is an international competition in which doctoral students present their research in three minutes in English, using only one slide. 3MT was started in 2008 at the University of Queensland (UQ), one of our partner universities. Currently, more than 900 universities from 85 countries participate in this well-known and highly regarded competition. This is the third time that Kyushu U 3MT has been held, having started in AY2021.
- (2) The 3MT is intended to refine students' academic research, presentation, and research communication skills. Students are also expected to provide explanations that can be conveyed to people outside their field of expertise so that their research can be made known to a wider audience.
- (3) By participating in Kyushu U 3MT, the students are expected to improve their communication skills and develop the ability to work with people from different backgrounds across fields of study. They will also gain valuable opportunities to be active in the international settings and to develop their research in the future.
- (4) The winner of the Kyushu U 3MT will compete in the 3MT main competition hosted by UQ, which will be held at UQ in Australia.
